Alliance Converter

The enhanced integration solution for connecting with Alliance Lite2

Alliance Converter makes a cloud connection to SWIFT possible to more business applications and more businesses than ever before. It is the essential bridge between your internal systems and Alliance Lite2, for connecting to SWIFT in the cloud.

Enabling your connection to SWIFT

Alliance Lite2 is an all new 'cloud-based' way to connect to the SWIFT network and related applications and services. Highly secure and reliable, Alliance Lite2 supports the message and file volume requirements of most SWIFT users.

As a true cloud service, Alliance Lite2 is subscription based. It enables reduced operational effort and cost. With its AutoClient function you can automate operations and integrate them with your back office. This provides fully automated upload and download of files.

When your back office is using data formats or communication methods not compatible with Alliance Lite2's AutoClient, Alliance Converter provides an enhanced integration offering to enable the integration and automation of your back-office flows.

On top of its core data transformation and connectivity options, Alliance Converter can deliver additional business benefits:

- It reduces the cost of updating business applications for SWIFT specific network protocols or message formats.
- You can rely on SWIFT to develop the integration solution. Your IT staff does not need to become SWIFT experts.
- Alliance Converter combines the benefits of cloud connectivity for SWIFT and an on-premises solution to deliver your most complex integration needs.

Features and functions

With Alliance Converter in place, you are effectively exchanging the information in your proprietary format messages with Alliance Lite2 for onward communication over SWIFT.

Alliance Converter provides:

- Data Transformation services, converting from non-SWIFT proprietary message formats to SWIFT message formats (MT, ISO15022, MX, ISO20022) and vice versa
- Additional IBM WebSphere MQ or SOAP Web Services connectivity options for back-office communication, on top of the default file-based method
- Support for SWIFT specific file formats (RJE, XMLv2) and messaging services (FIN, InterAct, FileAct)

The offering includes the following:

- Alliance Converter software
- Consulting Services: from systems analysis and design, to implementation and go-live
- The world-class SWIFT support services

Delivering the integration solution

Alliance Converter is delivered as part of an integration solution to enable connectivity with SWIFT in the cloud.

To deliver that solution SWIFT first needs to understand the specific customer requirements and the relevant back-office architecture. This is done with the help of SWIFT consultants — SWIFT’s team of experts who understand the underlying workings of financial messaging systems. From the initial investigation of customer needs, SWIFT will manage the project all the way through to go-live.

A proven formula to support you
