

A single, standard channel for sanctions list notifications and change reports

Free Sanctions List Monitor information service reduces cost and risk

Keeping up-todate and compliant with ever-changing sanctions lists represents a common challenge and major cost for the banking industry. With hundreds of changes to the major sanctions lists every year, it is not uncommon for lists to be updated more than once a day.

Benefits

- Improved visibility and understanding of sanctions list changes
- Greater efficiency, reduced operational and legal risk
- Standardised coverage of major sanctions lists
- Easy to order, manage and use
- Free, no-obligation service

The frequency of sanctions list changes presents both operational and business challenges. The complex nature of list information makes it difficult to understand the impact of list updates, know which changes need to be prioritised, and to ensure that list changes are applied correctly. Timely, accurate, easy-to-action information is critical, as delays in making updates can expose institutions to reputational, financial and operational risks.

SWIFT understands these challenges and is working with the industry to develop a portfolio of compliance products and services. In addition to its Sanctions Screening and Sanctions Testing solutions, SWIFT now offers its customers the Sanctions List Monitor service to provide immediate updates whenever sanctions lists change.

How it works

The Sanctions List Monitor continuously monitors official regulatory sites to detect updates and changes to sanctions lists.

As a subscriber to this free service, you receive email notifications whenever a list is updated. Updates are provided ahead of most official notifications from regulators – gaining valuable time for your compliance team, processes and systems.

These notifications come in two stages, helping you plan and implement changes more effectively. The first email notification tells you that an update is coming. Shortly thereafter you receive a follow-up email with a detailed explanation of the changes, including a comparison between the previous and updated list version.

This two-step process allows you to plan and start the update process immediately, sometimes hours ahead of the updated feed coming from a data supplier. The list change reports allow you to check that any changes are accurate, up-to-date and complete. The Sanctions List Monitor service provides you with improved control of your sanctions list maintenance and updates process.

The Sanctions List Monitor service provides timely information on list changes, enabling you to update sanctions screening systems quickly and accurately, and prioritise the most critical updates.

Enabling greater efficiency and risk mitigation

When it comes to updating your sanctions lists, every minute counts and not all changes have the same impact or level of urgency. For example, a new or updated name or alias on a sanctions list presents a far more urgent risk than a deletion or an address change for a known individual or entity.

The Sanctions List Monitor provides timely information about the details and magnitude of sanctions list changes. This helps you update sanctions screening systems quickly and accurately and prioritise the most critical updates, enabling you to manage and mitigate risk more effectively.

▲ Information is presented in a clear, easy-to-interpret summary

Standardised information

The multi-governmental, multijurisdictional nature of sanctions lists means that there is no common list format and no defined standard to communicate changes. The Sanctions List Monitor service provides list updates and change reports in a common format irrespective of sanctions list source.

You receive updates in a standard format across a single email channel – reducing the cost and complexity of managing multiple changes, and allowing you to further standardise and optimise your internal update and compliance processes.
